Storage/Handling – any time, any quantity

If you want to be able to respond perfectly to the different needs of your customers, you have to be in a position to supply your products at any time and in any quantity. HOYER develops flexible storage and handling concepts which increase the quality of your service.

Migrating from in-house warehousing to flexible storage and handling solutions opens up numerous opportunities both for you and your customers.

Service with no limits and plenty of extras

Your customer has no space to store the ordered goods? You yourself need extra storage and handling capacity? We have state-of-the-art terminals and storage facilities for dangerous goods, in which many products can be safely handled, stored and administered. Certified storage management systems ensure smooth operation at every stage of your product flow, along with maximum efficiency.

We are, for example, able to supply smaller product quantities to your customers, continuously and at short notice. We call this “mobile tank storage”.

In addition you can use our many value-added services, such as weighing units on calibrated scales or controlling the temperature of the containers during storage.
